Reconstructing the council's budget – Instrumental Music Tuition Service
There will be a change in how we will be provide the music service in Argyll and Bute. There will be a reduction in music instructors from 13.34 FTE by 1.3 posts.
At the council budget meeting in February 2018 is was agreed that there was to be a reduction in the cost of running the music service. The impact of the service on young people has been detailed in the proposal, and there have been other options considered to make this saving. However, the favoured option is to reduce costs through a reduction in staffing which can be provided through voluntary redundancy, should the proposal be accepted.
